Introduction

A list of over 275 Internet websites for property assessment administration and tax professionals compiled over more than a five year period. An alphabetical index makes looking up resources easier. While every attempt has been made to include as many websites as possible that are useful, please notify the author of those you wish to have considered for upcoming editions of this resource guide.

This resource guide includes selected websites available on the Internet collected during the period from February 16, 2006 through September 6, 2012. Each website link was reviewed in September 2012 and updated where needed.

Resource Guides are intended as mini-directories of information for property assessment administration professionals, tax professionals, property valuation specialists, and the general public. Resource Guides are not intended to give specific advice to practitioners and the public where local and/or state tax laws and generally accepted practices conflict with the position taken by the author.

Websites listed are not endorsed, nor is the author or Local Government Services International responsible for their content.

About the author: Richard Sanderson has more than 30 years experience valuing real estate for property tax purposes. Since 1983 he has served in the capacity of an appointed chief assessing officer for cities in Michigan and Virginia. Mr. Sanderson's international experience includes work and research in Albania, Chile, Italy, Macedonia, Mexico, and Zambia.
